Green Garmento

EcoClean continues to expand the use of the Green Garmento™ garment bags—the 4-in-1 reusable garment bag that’s replacing traditional plastic bags. At home, the Green Garmento serves as a hanging hamper, on your trip to the drycleaner it functions as a duffel bag and at pick-up, your dry-cleaned clothes are hanging and protected inside.

Hanger & Plastic Bag Recycling

EcoClean encourages hanger re-use and recycling. Customers collect and return hangers in one of our handy hanger caddies. EcoClean also offers plastic bag recycling in each of our loctations.

Energy Conservation

EcoClean participates in Austin Energy’s GreenChoice® green pricing program. All of the power that EcoClean consumes comes from a renewable or green power source (wind, sun, and methane from landfills). Also, by utilizing our free delivery service, each customer is saved not only time, but also the fuel costs of a roundtrip to our store. We are also excited to announce that EcoClean recently began using a new high-fuel efficiency van for our delivery which should cut our fuel consumption in HALF.

What is Wet Cleaning?

According to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, wet cleaning is the safest professional method of garment cleaning available. The process uses special biodegradable detergents and fresh water to clean dry-clean-only garments.

First developed in Germany in the early 1990s, professional wet cleaning technology is now used by thousands of cleaners across the United States in response to consumer demand for a healthier alternative to dry cleaning.

Our computerized washing machines and dryers have fabric specific programs that meticulously control the amount of water, soap, conditioner, agitation, heat, humidity and dry time to properly clean and protect even the most delicate silks and wools.

Clothes that have been wet cleaned have a softer look and feel (and a much better smell) than clothes that have been dry cleaned. After wet cleaning, your garments are hand-pressed and beautifully finished by our experienced pressers.

What's wrong with Dry Cleaning?

Since the 1930's traditional dry cleaners have used a solvent called perchloroethylene (perc) as their primary cleaning agent. Perc is a central nervous system depressant that can enter the body through inhaling, skin contact or through contaminated drinking water. Perc has been linked to neurological, liver, and kidney damage and the EPA has classified it as a likely human carcinogen. Additionally, perc is a serious air, soil, and groundwater pollutant. More than 70% of perc used by drycleaners ends up in the environment and it has been found in over 26% of U.S. groundwater supplies. Public awareness about this pervasive toxin is growing rapidly and several states have banned its use.
